Hi Ron and Phil. Since my last reply (below), I have discussed this with Doug, and we believe it is in all of our best interests if we are able to review (quickly) your Response to Comments prior to the official 45 day period. This way, if there is anything we catch, you can fix it prior to submitting the proposed permit and R2C to us for the 45 day review period. We then won't need the 45 days to review and comment, and can shorten that period significantly.

Also, this needs resolution by August this year, to prevent a possible law suit against EPA for failure to perform its non-discretionary duty or for unreasonable delay under the CAA to issue or deny the Title V permit for the Hanford site. So, time is of the essence.

Your last proposed schedule was from a few months ago, so if there have been any changes to that schedule, please share that with us.

Thanks.

Just once is fine. Saves some time.

Don,

It is in the attached email. My concern is we have about 50 comments that will take the AGs time to go over and prepare advice on. Cutting this time short will likely add to time on the end.

My main question is, does EPA really have the time/desire to go over the responses twice (once with attention toward the ORDER and the next time for an overall viewpoint) or just once (45 day mandatory review time)?

I'm hoping you indicate only once for everything. That will be time the AGs could seriously use to facilitate better responses to the comments.

Hi Phil. I haven't had a chance to talk with Ron (or Doug this week) about this yet, but I suggest whichever way is the most expedient in issuing the permit. Would you send me the schedule for issuance of the AOP that you sent to Doug? For some reason, I can't find a copy of it. Thanks.

Don,

Doug is out of the office and referred everyone to you. Would you feel comfortable taking a stab at answering my question?

Doug,

For the Hanford response to comment schedule, I had included 10 working days for EPA to have an advanced look at the response to comments for comparison to the ORDER. If this isn't needed and you will use the regular 45 day review of the AOP for both the regular review and the review for compliance with your ORDER, it would provide additional (and needed) time for the AGs to review the responses.

Would you please let me know your thoughts on this.
